The grant writing process has historically been a deadline-driven mad rush to the finish line. Typically understaffed, grantwriters in Indian Country have often had to carry the burden of proposal writing single-handedly. With the advent of the internet, and web-based tools, grant writing can truly be a collaborative process. By creating the systems and protocols to allow for simultaneous grants development, you are more likely to meet that next pressing deadline using a team approach!

This course will equip you with essential web-based tools and a field-tested approach to building your virtual grant writing team.

Join us at ExecuTrain West, on 7251 Amigo st suite 160 in Las Vegas for this in-depth, hands-on computer training course!
